ABOUT AASU

AASU is the largest student movement in Africa and a very dominant force on the Continent and beyond. The All-Africa Students Union (AASU) organizes all students in Africa – from the basic level to Institutions of higher learning; in essence, the Union is the umbrella organization for all students of Africa. Since its inception in 1972, AASU now has presence in 54 Countries in Africa. As the Continent's largest students' group, AASU played an important role in the struggle against colonialism and the ending of apartheid.

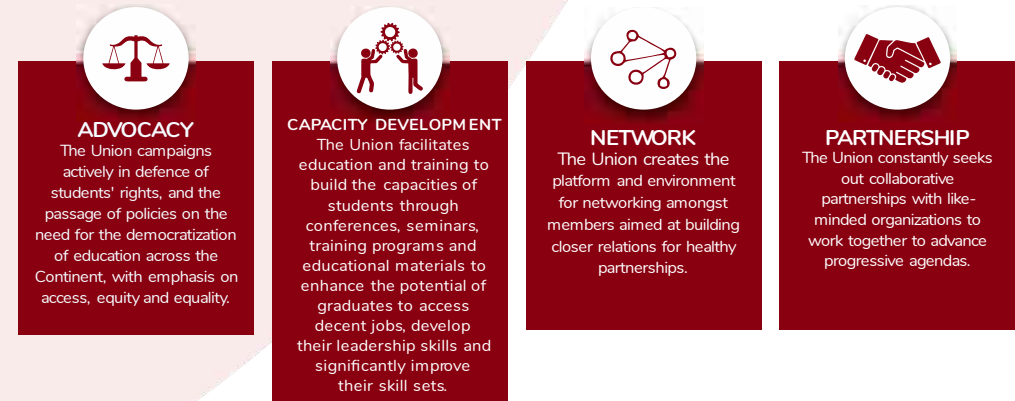

In the year 2000, the UN awarded AASU a certificate of merit in recognition of the Union's efforts at advancing students' rights and championing the democratization of education across the African Continent.

See: <http://www.un.org/press/en/2000/20000410.dev2241.doc.html>

The Union is wholly student-run and student-led, autonomous, representative, and operates according to democratic principles. The Executives of the Union are democratically elected and representative of all the sub-regions across the Continent.

AASU's key strength lies in its diversity and numerical strength, which it employs as a bargaining tool to speak for the supreme interests of students at all times. The Union is made up of diverse students, regardless of their religion, gender, cultural background, political persuasion, ethnic origin or social standing. The Union achieves its core mandate through:

PRESIDENT
ALL-AFRICA STUDENTS UNION

Comrades, Student Leaders and Partners, kindly accept my warmest felicitations for the New Year. May the New Year bring us all good fortunes. It has been an incredibly difficult year for the world, and especially for students. In spite of these difficulties, we have persevered and risen through the rubble with sheer dexterity and resilience.

The All-Africa Students Union is incredibly excited for the support you provided in these challenging times. In that same vein, I am incredibly excited at the prospects a new year holds. Crises breed innovation and strength. As we are presented with new challenges, we must strive to identify and develop new ways to achieve our goal of building a united and prosperous Africa. This growth process I believe should be youth-led with the young intellectual community at the centre.

Evidently, in 2020, education saw significant adjustments globally. In Africa, the shock appears even more pervasive owing to the several prevailing challenges around access, quality, and innovation. For instance, in a bid to address some of these shortfalls, schools migrated virtually. The problem of access specifically, was further exposed by poor communication and technological infrastructure broadly across Africa. This reiterates the need to see the problems of education in Africa as intersectional.

Despite these challenges, National Unions, Student Leaders and their respective governments as well as local and international partners of the All-Africa Students Union have led the way on discourses and dialogues with the aim to develop innovative solutions for the future. AASU is immensely grateful for the commitment and show of solidarity to one another. The direct interventions of the national unions have become a model to replicate across the continent. For all those who worked to make what was impossible yesterday a reality today, I say well done.

In 2021, it is our expectation that we would continue to work together in the student movement. The lessons from 2020 should guide our actions towards a stronger, more participatory student union. Let us continue to demand for transparency and accountability in the interest of students and young people in Africa.

I thank you all. Happy New Year.

Message from the Secretary-General

SECRETARY-GENERAL
ALL-AFRICA STUDENTS UNION

On the back of what has been a difficult year as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, 2020 witnessed global school closures for the most part, with an estimated 1.3 billion learners compelled to study at home where possible.

We look ahead to 2021 with a sense of nostalgia, knowing that around 11 Million young girls will potentially not return to the classroom as schools prepare to reopen, unless drastic measures are taken to ensure their education is not cut short.

We also know that a lot of children are being forced into child labour due to pressures on their families to survive on account of the hardships inflicted by this pandemic. At this rate, all the gains we have made in the fights against child labour will be rolled back.

The combined impacts of COVID-19 on the education of girls and marginalized children pushes the world to the brink of losing an entire generation.

It is commendable that the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) has unanimously adopted a resolution declaring 2021 as the International Year for the Elimination of Child Labour. We will be joining hands with the 100 Million Campaign and Children's Rights Champion, Nobel Peace Prize Laureate, Kailash Satyarthi to fulfill the mission of ensuring all children are FREE, SAFE and EDUCATED.

In a sense, I believe we will look back one day and be grateful that the stark vulnerabilities and inequities in our education and social systems have been brutally exposed by the constraints imposed by COVID-19.

But it didn't have to take the COVID-19 to bring world leaders to see this obvious truth.

Last year, through the power of solidarity, we worked together with our colleagues from other Continents under the coordination of the 100 Million Campaign demand a fair share of the COVID-19 recovery funds to be allocated to those furthest left behind, and those truly in need of the funds.

In 2021, under the auspices of the Global Student Forum (GSF), we will stand together with our compatriots from all over the world to demand accountability from our governments on various issues. We have come to realize the issues that confront us are common, regardless of our geographical differences.

I want to use this opportunity to express my heartfelt gratitude to all our national student unions for the direct interventions they have contributed to their government's efforts to tackle the COVID-19 pandemic. In 2021, we will continue to stand with you in solidarity.

Message from the Secretary-General

It is equally important to acknowledge that some African Governments took extra-ordinary measures to alleviate the impact of the pandemic on the poor and the marginalized. We remember fondly the decision of His Majesty Mohammed VI, King of the Kingdom of Morocco to give active and essential COVID-related health assistance to other African countries to aid the Continental efforts to address the pandemic. We commend these efforts and ask others to follow this example.

Last year, we stood against dictatorial and authoritarian tendencies in Nigeria, Zimbabwe, Ethiopia, China, amongst others, and we demanded the release of our colleague, Patrick Zaki, who is still being unlawfully detained by the Government of Egypt for his Human Rights activities.

Our history as the All-Africa Students Union is rich with several instances where we have stood united to oppose authoritarian regimes.

We fiercely fought the apartheid regime together with our colleagues in South Africa,

We stood with our colleagues in the Soweto uprising and consequently named June 16 as African Student's Day.

In 2021, as far as students' rights and human rights in general are concerned, we will continue to relentlessly defend those rights at all times.

I am happy to announce the decision of the Government of Cape Verde to reduce tuition fees by 50% for the 2021 academic year following demands by our fellow students in Cape Verde with our support. We will be keen to see other African Governments follow this example.

We commit to do the following in 2021:

- 1) We will engage productively with governments to increase spending on education to ensure that no group is disproportionately affected by the impacts of the pandemic.
- 2) We will continue to work with UNESCO and other global partners through the Global Education Coalition launched by UNESCO to ensure learning never stops.
- 3) We will continue to work with the 100 Million Campaign and other partners to ensure that marginalized children get their fair share of the COVID-19 recovery funds.
- 4) We will continue to work to ensure that government, key institutions, and key actors become more responsive and conscious of the needs of students, young people, and marginalized groups amid the pandemic.
- 5) We will continue to forge stronger partnerships and solidarity among young people to build broad coalitions to demand a robust COVID-19 recovery strategy that leaves no one behind.
- 6) We will seek to imbibe a sense of urgency in our constituents to act to hold their governments accountable to save the loss of a generation.
- 7) Through UNESCO's Gender Flagship programme, we will continue to campaign for girls to return to School.

Message from the Secretary-General

Last year, we have challenged our leaders on several forums and at every opportunity, and we did so together! We did so on the sidelines of the G20 Summit, the 2020 UNGA and other key events.

Together, we achieved much more than going at it alone. As we plan to build back better, we must do so together in solidarity. If anything, we have seen that our problems are common, and they befit a common response.

As we start this year (2021), the All-Africa Students Union wishes all students of the African Continent nothing short of happiness and peace, in what we expect to be an impact-filled year.

Happy New Year!

VISION AND MISSION OF AASU

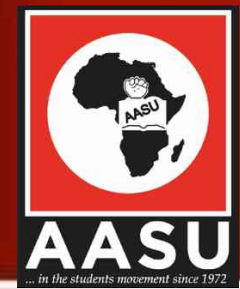

VISION:

To be the leading organisation in mobilizing co-coordinating and involving African students in all the efforts geared towards the socio-economic, political and cultural advancement of Africa

MISSION:

To create among the broad masses of African people a sense of awareness of the problems confronting the Continent and the need for students, as an integral part of their society, to be fully involved in all endeavors aimed at resolving them.

GOALS OF AASU

To promote unity among students' organizations in and out of Africa based on common objectives;

To struggle for broad and equal access to education, for University autonomy and respect for academic freedoms and for a true reform and democratization of education

To foster the development of students by promoting inter-African institutional and cultural exchange programs and extra-curricular activities such as sports and students tourism;

To seek, defend and protect the rights of the students such as the right to organize themselves and take part in the decision making and policy implementation processes on all the issues affecting them;

To promote the spirit of friendship and solidarity among students and youth and to actively contribute to the development of the world youth and students movement;

To promote socio-economic, political and cultural integration of the States and peoples of Africa;

To be fully involved in the peoples' struggle against all forms of domination, exploitation, discrimination, for peace, and socio-economic development

STRATEGIC PRIORITY AREAS OF AASU

Agenda
2063
The Africa we Want

EDUCATION AND STUDENTS' RIGHTS

Theme for the year:

“Holding the Gains: Accelerating Domestic Education Financing to Ensuring Equal Education for all”

The All-Africa Students Union strongly believes in education as a public good and advocates that no one is excluded from its use. AASU is engaged in the protection of the rights of students and the adoption of policies that resolve the need to democratise education across the continent, with a focus on access, equity and equality. AASU will continue to contribute to ambitious and robust advocacy and campaigns around domestic financing for equitable and quality education by collaborating with organisations and education activists countries to influence budgets and policy processes in a way which leads to greater budget allocations and more effective expenditure. In 2021, AASU would amplify the voices of students to defend their right to affordable education around the Continent. We support bridging the gap between students and the government to make quality education accessible to everyone.

MIGRATION AND MOBILITY

Theme for the year:

“Holding the Gains: Advocating for National Ratification of Migration Protocols to Promote Quality Education for All”

The All-Africa Students Union is committed to addressing the problems hindering effective student mobility and others that are exacerbating unequal treatment of refugees and migrants, especially regarding their access to quality education. AASU will embark on an advocacy campaign for national governments to ratify the Global Compact on Refugees (Refugee Compact) and the Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration (Migration Compact).

In 2021, AASU will amplify the call for refugees and migrants to be given the opportunity to get into the formal education system and be provided with scholarships and beneficial programmes.

PAN-AFRICANISM & AFRICAN CULTURE

Theme for the year:

“Holding the gains: Leveraging on youth solidarity to promote culture inclusiveness and diversity”.

The encouragement and strengthening of bonds of solidarity and respect for Africa culture among all Africa Students is a key strategic area at AASU. The focus for 2021 would be to promote cultural inclusion and diversity through our programs. 2021 will see renewed engagements between AASU and the diaspora.

PAN-AFRICAN CULTURAL DIVERSITY
PROGRAMME

Diaspora Youth
Connect

Africa Creative Arts Industry Mentorship

GENDER ADVOCACY

Theme for the year:

“Holding the gains: Championing Actions against the Regression of Progress made on Gender Equality”

We can already see that the pandemic and its economic fallout are having a regressive effect on gender equality. Women are more vulnerable to COVID-19–related economic effects because of existing gender inequalities. The COVID-19 has the potential to erode all the gains made in achieving gender equality. However, AASU believes that the possible retrogression of the gains made on gender equality is surmountable. Taking actions to advance gender equality would be valuable. In 2021, AASU will be championing calls for actions to be taken to address the plights of women to promote gender equality.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

DEMOCRACY AND GOOD GOVERNANCE

Theme for the year:

Holding the Gains: Encouraging Institutions to Adopt and Implement Good Governance Principles.

The creation of a safe and secured learning environment is largely dependent on the favourability of a nation's political climate. At AASU, we believe democracy is the foundation on which favourable learning environment could be created. In that regard, our research team would focus on digging the challenges militating the smooth implementation of democratic and good governance principles, while putting forward recommendations for better democratic environments to espouse rule of law and promote human rights.

ENVIRONMENT AND CLIMATE ACTION

Theme for the year:

“Holding the Gains: Inspiring African Youth and Students to take Action for Climate justice”

It is common knowledge that climate change is one of the pressing issues facing the world today. The impacts of climate change are already being felt now by many nations, and it will get worse unless focused actions are undertaken to address them. In Africa, climate change continues to affect the delivery of quality education as climate change creates disruptions in educational environments. Youth under the age of 30 are inheriting a hotter, more unpredictable climate that has enormous implications for the future. AASU believes in the power of young people to take on the climate challenge. In 2021, AASU would execute programs and projects that will inspire the youth to take action for the climate. The goal is to encourage the youth to lead the call for attitudinal change and also undertake innovative projects for climate action.

CAPACITY BUILDING

Theme for the year:

“Holding the Gains: Upskilling the African Youth and Commercializing Industry 4.0 Skills”

The COVID-19 has fast-tracked the awareness that digital skills are necessary for survival in today's industry 4.0. The focus now should be on educating the youth to take up digital skill courses, volunteer their skills and commercialize them for their personal and socio-economic transformation. This will be championed by AASU to contribute to creating decent jobs for the youth as indicated in SDG 8. AASU in 2021 would embrace the “Grab-A-Skill” project, the “4.0 Skills Training” programme and others, by identifying global trends and skills set needed and execute training programmes that will build the capacity of African students and youth for a post-COVID-19 world.

PROGRAMS AND PROJECTS

AASU ELECTION OBSERVER MISSIONS

AFRICAN STUDENTS GOVERNANCE INDEX

In the interest of promoting the principles of Good Governance, AASU is working to collect, aggregate and publish a compendium of a country-based index of the quality of governance within student-based groups. The Index will contain a Country Profile which will look at the following: student population, presence of National Students Groups, structure, sources of funding, relationship with the government and historical influence. It will then go ahead to measure the performance of Student-Governance on a country basis on the following indicators: rule of law, transparency, responsiveness, consensus oriented, equity and inclusiveness, effectiveness and efficiency, accountability, and participation.

GRAB-A-SKILL PROJECT

The Grab-A-Skill project will provide entrepreneurial skills to the youth through skill-building, coaching and mentorship. By collaborating with TVET institutions, the project will help graduates, continuing students, unemployed youths, and marginalised groups to acquire productive vocational skills. The beneficiaries will receive digital training in digital marketing, website development, presentation to complement the skills gathered from the main training sessions. The long-term objective is to equip youths with skills to create their local businesses, causing a ripple effect where these local businesses create jobs.

-1

E-SPORT COMPETITION

E-sport is fast becoming a global phenomenon, as its marketing and financial potential has increased especially during the pandemic. The e-sport economy is an opportunity waiting to be seized, and AASU has resolved to expose the African students to the vast opportunities in this area. This competition is meant to expose the African youth and students job opportunities in the E-sport industry and the economic potentials in the e-sporting area.

4.0 SKILLS TRAINING

The 4.0 Skills Training is AASU's way of exposing its constituents to the new normal in the world of work, that is the huge search for individuals with digital skills. Industry 4.0 is a new phase in the Industrial Revolution that focuses heavily on interconnectivity, automation, machine learning, and real-time data. The 4.0 Skills Training is to enable students to grasp the digital skills needed for the world of work to secure their well-paid job that ensures their financial freedom.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS DAY

Since the declaration of November 17 as International Students Day by the International Student Council in 1941, students around the world have been commemorating November 17 in diverse forms to promote human rights, quality education for all and good governance. Since its formation in 1972, AASU has championed these values based on which the International Students Day is marked.

10TH AFRICA STUDENTS AND YOUTH SUMMIT

Africa Students' and Youth Summit is the flagship annual event of the AASU that brings together students and youth of African descent from within Africa and the diaspora. The summit serves as a very important platform for students and young people to deliberate and come up with solutions to the challenges that inhibit their quest for attaining a prosperous future.

1 IN 5 CAMPAIGN

Through the 1 in 5 Campaign, AASU, 100 Million, ESU, EI, OBESSU are standing together to demand that $1 trillion – equivalent to 20% of government funds committed to the coronavirus recovery – should be dedicated to supporting the needs of the 20% most marginalised and excluded children and their families.

EDUCATION ENROLMENT PROGRAM

The EEP is an effort by the AASU under the auspices of the 100 Million Campaign, to get every child out of child labour (especially its worst forms) and enroll them into mainstream education and/or other forms of learning as the circumstances may determine.

Girls Back to School
Campaign

GIRLS BACK TO SCHOOL CAMPAIGN

AASU has been working with its constituents, through the UNESCO Global Education Coalition “Girls Back to School Campaign” to ensure the safe return of girls to school and also to ensure that the education of girls is not cut short as a result of the pandemic. The situation of young girls is particularly alarming, given the tendency to marry them off to make money for the family.

-1&6

AFRICAN STUDENTS DAY

June 16 was declared African Student's Day at the 6th Ordinary Congress of AASU held in Addis Ababa. The day is set aside to re-echo the need for students to be recognised as instrumental pillars of higher education development and the shaping of education to meet the needs of the ever-changing society.

-1&6

AFRICAN CREATIVE ART INDUSTRY MONETIZATION

The programme is geared towards re-orienting the mind, advancement of various creative arts options, promotion of works and commercialisation of products of youths and students engaged in the creative arts industry. Among others, the programme aims to educate the youth and students on how they can harness the economic and social development potentials within the creative art industry in Africa

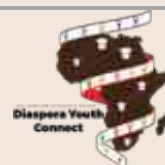

-1&5

50TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATIONS

The 50th anniversary celebrations is to recount the milestones achieved, the progress made in defending students' rights, acknowledging the challenges, as well as taking stock of changes in the student leadership landscape. This celebration will enable AASU to uniquely position itself to remain a vibrant force both continentally and globally.

DIASPORA YOUTH CONNECT

The Diaspora Youth Connect is an innovative way of bringing students and youths in the diaspora back to Africa to reconnect with their roots, get to know their history and participate in cultural and other activities. The programme offers a platform for reconnection, knowledge sharing and exchange of best practices and culture.

-1,5&7

STUDENT LEADERS TRAINING

The Union offers training to all student leaders to prepare them for effective institutional and national leadership. The comprehensive training involves practical case study approaches that teach student leaders how to use effective strategies for learning, leading and accomplishing their responsibilities as young leaders.

-1,5&7

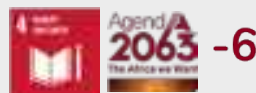

MOBILISE 4 ACTION

This workshop is for all student leaders of the various student unions and associations across the African continent. Due to the inability to come together with one voice to pursue a common interest, student and youth are sometimes not well represented at the decision making tables. It is with concern that AASU intends to bring such organisations together to pursue the agenda of increased mobilisation and collaborations for youth-led initiatives.

AFRICAN STUDENT'S WEEK

The African Students' Week provides a platform where African Students can celebrate and express their beliefs and opinions, while still demanding from governments and state actors on what they need to be done in their space. The celebration highlights students' contribution to societal, institutional, national, and continental development.

INTERNSHIP LINK-UP

This initiative connects students to various work industries where they learn practical expertise in industrial administration and gain experience. We connect students and graduates internship slots across the continent in all industrial sectors. Students spend some months training through their choice of institutions to learn practical expertise and skills that will be important to their future.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

AASU is organising the Women and Youth Africa Webinar to mark the 2021 International Women's Day. Among AAU's objective is to map out effective ways to create change in our communities in order to empower young men and women in society. Also, bridging the gender gap, ensuring gender equality and promoting the role of women are core elements of AASU's goals to achieve SDG 5 and Agenda 2063 aspiration 6.

ELECTION OBSERVER MISSION

AASU's Election Observer Mission (AASU-EOM) is an initiative instituted to promote an early sense of election observation in Africa. Every year, Student Leaders Elections and National elections are conducted in Africa to elect National Students Leaders, leaders of Governments and the legislature. For this reason, the impact of policy development that highlights the needs and benefit of young people is critical to ensure that a majority of young people have a say in the process.

INTERNATIONAL DAY OF EDUCATION

This day is commemorated every 24 January to honour education and its central importance to human well-being and sustainable development is embedded at the heart of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948); Article 26, and further strengthened in following human rights treaties. The building stone of stable and successful economies is education education, and is therefore a central focus for AASU.

GIRLS IN STEM (G-STEM)

Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) is crucial to any developing and industrialised nation. The Girls in STEM project is geared towards building the interest and career prospects of young girls in the areas of STEM. The project will also establish a network of young girls in STEM to enhance knowledge-sharing and collaboration while serving as a source of inspiration to other girls through ambassadorial programmes.

-1,2&6

PAN-AFRICAN CULTURAL INCLUSION PROGRAMME

This programme is geared towards promoting cultural inclusion and tolerance through community impact programmes that are culture-centred. Students from the diaspora will have the opportunity to partner with local students on initiatives aimed at protecting the rich culture of Africa through online and onsite platforms. The project will also generate funds and provide the expertise needed to build the capacity of student leaders on cultural tolerance, and promotion of cultural entrepreneurship through ICT.

-2&5

MIGRANT STUDENTS SUPPORT PROGRAMME (MSSP)

The Migrant Students Support Programme (MSSP) is an initiative led by the AASU, to provide support for migrant and refugee students, and children to facilitate access to formal education, scholarships, resident permits and the transitioning from one culture to another. The Migration and Mobility Working Group promotes the Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration by advocating for the expansion of available options for academic mobility through this initiative.

EDUCATION SUPPORT SERVICES

The AASU ESS is intended to be a support initiative for all students across the continent who intend to pursue diverse courses in different educational institutions across the world while making room for the opportunity to explore new places and cultures. The ESS is a timely project that will lead to the establishment of relevant partnerships and collaborations with educational institutions that will make education more accessible to African students.

ECO STUDENTS AMBASSADORS

The main goal of the ECO STUDENTS AMBASSADORS (ESA) is to empower students from Africa with leadership, advocacy, and entrepreneurial skills to be used to address climate change. The idea is to encourage students to be climate action agents in communities, schools, and countries. The students will receive relevant training at a seminar dubbed ECO-SEMINAR on eco-friendly practices that can be transmitted to community members.

SDG 4 MONITORING PROJECT

SDG 4 Monitoring Project facilitates research on education across the continent with help from our constituents (i.e. the National Student Unions). It is expected to provide evidence from the perspective of students as to what extent policies on education have been effective in meeting the targets of the SDG 4. This project includes capacity building initiatives geared towards training students as researchers to help track goal 4 across the continent.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE ON DEMOCRACY AND GOOD GOVERNANCE

A peaceful and productive society is based on effective state institutions. Good governance in this sense means effective and efficient structures, which provide optimal support to citizens in leading a safe and productive life in line with their desires and opportunities of democracy, the social welfare state, and the rule of law. AASU will assemble leaders and practitioners from different backgrounds to share their thoughts and recommendations on effective and sustainable development of Good governance Systems in Africa,

-2,3&4

AFRICAN STUDENTS DIALOGUE SERIES

A platform for students to engage experts, policy makers and other stakeholders on issues that are current and relevant to the continent

-3,6&7

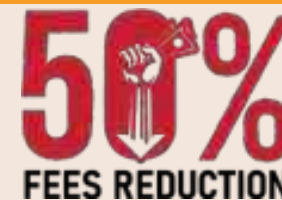

AFRICA EDUCATORS' FORUM

At the core of the AASU's mandate is the facilitation of policies and actions that are geared towards creating an enabling the environment to ensure the delivery of equitable, accessible and quality education for all. The Africa Educators' Forum is an opportunity for students and student organisations to engage with policymakers and all other stakeholders in the educational sector on diverse thematic areas to support and fast track actions geared towards attaining the goals for lifelong opportunities for all.

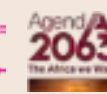

-1&6

50% FEES REDUCTION

A lot of caregivers, particularly those in the informal sector have lost their jobs in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. Africa is most affected if you consider that 76% of jobs on the Continent are in the informal sector. Education is most likely to be the trade-off package unless governments move promptly to provide social interventions to keep the most marginalised children in school. We are leveraging on our grassroots mobilisation capacity to demand justice for the most marginalised so that COVID does not truncate their education, which is what we have dubbed the "50% Reduction Campaign"
